KEY WORDS: Hymenoptera, Vespidae, Eumeninae, distribution, species list, Vietnam.

КЛЮЧЕВЫЕ СЛОВА: Hymenoptera, Vespidae, Eumeninae, распространение, список видов, Вьетнам.

ABSTRACT: A first list of vespid wasps (Hymenoptera: Vespidae) recorded from Vietnam as of the end of 2013 is presented. A total of 109 species belonging to 32 genera of four subfamilies, including, Eumeninae (33 species), Stenogastrinae (10 species), Polistinae (50 species), and Vespinae (16 species), are treated as valid. 19 new distributional records and the information of the distribution of the species are also provided.

РЕЗЮМЕ: Приводится первый список складчатокрылых ос (Hymenoptera: Vespidae) Вьетнама. По состоянию на конец 2013 года он включает 109 видов из 32 родов четырёх подсемейств, в том числе Eumeninae (33 вида), Stenogastrinae (10 видов), Polistinae (50 видов) и Vespinae (16 видов). Для 19 видов приведены новые точки находок.

Introduction

The hymenopteran family Vespidae, with more than 5000 species worldwide, is divided into six subfamilies. They are Euparagiinae, Masariniae, Eumeninae, Stenogastrinae, Polistinae, and Vespinae with 10 species in 1 genus, 344 species in 14 genera, 3579 species in 210 genera, 58 species in 7 genera, 958 species in 26 genera, and 69 species in 4 genera, respectively [van der Vecht & Carpenter, 1990, reviewed in Pickett & Carpenter, 2010]. The social wasps are comprised of three subfamilies (Stenogastrinae, Polistinae, and Vespinae), in the family Vespidae, while the wasps in the three other subfamilies (Euparagiinae, Masariniae, and Eumeninae) are solitary.

South-East Asia is a special place for the wasps: it is the center of higher-level diversity. Four of the six vespid subfamilies occur (Eumeninae, Stenogastrinae, Polistinae, and Vespinae). The Eumeninae are cosmopolitan and include more than 3500 described species. The Stenogastrinae are endemic to the Indo-Malayan area, distributed from India and Sri Lanka to New Guinea. Five of the seven genera (Eustenogaster van der Vecht, 1969, Liostenogaster van der Vecht, 1969, Parischnogaster von Schulthess, 1914, Metischnogaster van der Vecht, 1977, and Cochlischnogaster Dong et Otsuka, 1997) occur in southern Asia, while the remaining two (Stenogaster Guerin, 1831 and Anischnogaster van der Vecht, 1972) are found only in New Guinea and its adjacent islands. The Polistinae are cosmopolitan, with two of the four tribes, Polistini and Ropalidiini, occurring in Old World. The Vespinae are Holarctic and Oriental, and Southeast Asia is the only area where all the four genera (Dolichovespula Rohwer, 1916, Vespa Thomson, 1869, Vespa Linnaeus, 1758, and Provespa Ashmead, 1903) occur, and Provespa is endemic to the area.

Vietnam, spread from north to south along the eastern margin of the Indochina Peninsula, covers a total area of approximately 331210 km² with 4639 km long of the land boundary, and 3444 km long of the coastline. Vietnam's land is mostly hilly and densely forested. Mountains account for 40% of the country's land area, and tropical forests cover around 42%. So Vietnam is expected to have high magnitude of biodiversity. Especially North Vietnam, which is within the Indo-Burma biodiversity hotspot and shows climatically more or less warm-temperate characteristics, is expected to be one of the centers of divergence of vespid wasps, as has been demonstrated for the polistine genus Polistes Latreille, 1802. Nevertheless, the vespid wasps in the area are yet poorly studied. An annotated distributional checklist of social wasps of Vietnam was performed by Nguyen et al. [2005]. In this checklist, they listed 45 species in 10 genera occurring in Vietnam. However, this work has hitherto been for 8 years, and many new species of the social wasp are added to the Vietnamese fauna since then. Specially, subfamily Eumeninae only treated formal in the middle of 2012.

Well corroborated taxonomic works would of course contribute greatly to the study of the biology of these wasps, which exhibit considerable divergence in social organization and nesting behavior [reviewed in Turilazzi, 1991]. As the basis for perusing revisionary taxonomic works and catalogs, a present list provides basic taxonomic information and distribution records for wasps so far recorded from Vietnam.

Materials and methods

The present paper is based mainly on published faunistic records and also on specimens housed in Institute of Ecology and Biological Resources (IEBR), Hanoi, Vietnam. In each subfamily the genera are listed alphabetically. In each genus, species names are listed alphabetically insofar they are considered as valid in the most recent citation, and species are numbered, with a sub-number for each subspecies, if any. Distributional data are summarized by country for a taxon treated as valid. Provincial distribution and references are only for records from Vietnam. Vietnamese provinces are given in bold and given in alphabetical order in the lists. The specimens examined are listed by provinces in Vietnam. Because Ha Tay province merged into Hanoi capital 1 August 2008, the distribution of some species in this province is recorded for Hanoi. Abbreviations and symbols are as follows: National Park — NP; Phong Huy Pham — PP.

Results and discussion

Mainly based on previously published data and on specimens housed in IEBR, the present list of vespid wasps from Vietnam presented in this paper consists of 109 species in 32 genera of four subfamilies (Eumeninae, Stenogastrinae, Polistinae, and Vespinae). 19 new distributional records are added.

Ischnogaster rufo-maculata Bingham, 1894: 385; Ischnogaster hauxwellii Bingham, 1894: 386; Ischnogaster hauxwelli von Dalla Torre, 1904: 84; ?Stenogaster bicarinata Dover et Rao, 1922: 242; Eustenogaster hauxwellii Iwata, 1976: 274.

DISTRIBUTION. India: Sikkim; Myanmar; Thailand; Malaysia: Sarawak; Singapore; Indonesia: Java, Sumatra, Bangka, Kalimantan; Philippines: Mindanao; Vietnam: Dak Lak, Dong Nai, Lam Dong, Quang Nam, Tay Ninh [Nguyen et al., 2005; Nguyen, 2007].

4. Eustenogaster nigra Saito et Nguyen, 2006

Eustenogaster nigra Saito et Nguyen, 2006: 4, 6.

DISTRIBUTION. China: Yunan; Vietnam: Hanoi, Ha Tinh, Hai Phong, Hoa Binh, Lang Son, Ninh Binh, Nghe An, Phu Tho, Quang Ninh (new record), Thai Nguyen, Vinh Phuc [Nguyen, Khuat, 2004; Saito et al., 2006; Nguyen, 2007; Nguyen, Pham, 2011].

Saito et al. [2006] stated that: “Nguyen and Khuat [2004] published the name in quotation marks, ..., and they gave its diagnostic characters in a key, ... There was no intention to make the name available, as it is not under the current International Code of Zoological Nomenclature [ICZN, 1999] That is, Nguyen and Khuat [2004] neither made an explicit statement that the name is new [ICZN, 1999: Article 16] nor fixed the name-bearing type [ICZN, 1999: Article 16.4]”. So, they validated the name of the species, and described the species as a new species to Vietnam with the details of both female and male together with the nest. The species has been only recorded from the northern part of the country (in 10 provinces). Outside Viet Nam, this species has also been recorded from Southern China. In present list, we add a new distributional locality as stated above (6♀♀ — Hai Phong, Cat Ba NP, Cat Hai, 20°45'N 107°05'E, h = 210 m, 17–18.III.2012, PP; 1♀ — Quang Ninh, Phuong Dong, Uong Bi, 21°04'N 106°45'E, h = 188 m, 26.VI.2013, PP).

DISTRIBUTION. India: West Bengal, Assam, Meghalaya; Bhutan; Myanmar; Thailand; Laos; China: Xizang, Sichuan, Yunnan, Jiangsu, Shanghai; Russia: Primor'ye, Sakhalin; Korea; Vietnam [Archer, 1989; Carpenter, Kojima, 1997b; Nguyen, Carpenter, 2002; Nguyen et al., 2005, 2006a; Nguyen, 2007].

Archer [1989] recorded this species from North Vietnam, but did not show the exact locality. In his next studies [Archer, 1999] lately, he did not mention the present of the species in Vietnam. According to my ideas, this may be a mistake in his papers [1989 or 1999]. Nguyen's studies on the subfamily Vespinae and the social wasp in Vietnam [Nguyen, 2002, 2005, 2006a, 2007] also mentioned the presence of this species in Vietnam, but that was not documented. Occurring of the species is thus ambiguous. In this list, however, we still include the species occurring in Vietnam but put a question remark in front of the name of the species.

9. Vespa ducalis F. Smith, 1852
